Discovering the Ourika valley and Asni

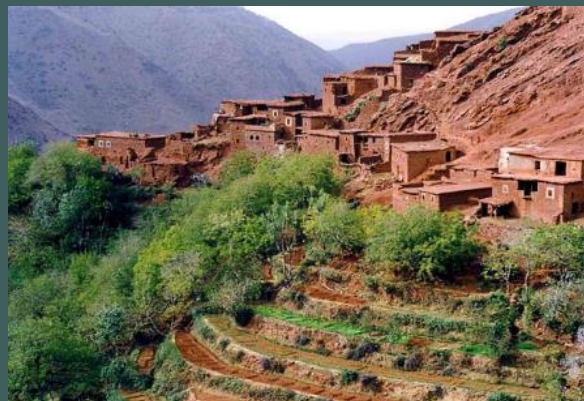

Discover the Asni Valley, then the Ourika Valley. Just over an hour from Marrakech, the Asni Valley rises up against some of the highest peaks in the Atlas mountains. It boasts the beauty and purity of a largely unspoiled natural environment, offering a haven of peace after the hustle and bustle of the red city.

Departure in the morning at 9am, return at 5pm.

	Ourika only	Ourika & Asni

Discover Essaouira

On the way to Essaouira, you'll have the chance to visit argan oil cooperatives, as the region is renowned for the production of this precious oil. The medina, a UNESCO World Heritage site, is surrounded by imposing ramparts and features narrow streets, whitewashed houses with blue shutters and lively souks. The port of Essaouira is a busy fishing port and a picturesque place to watch the colourful boats, fishing nets and seagulls flying overhead.

Departure in the morning at 8 a.m., return at 7 p.m.

Fresh fish meal recommended in the port at around €15

Discovering Ait Benhadou Ouarzazate

Situated in the foothills of the southern slopes of the High Atlas in the province of Ouarzazate, the site of Ait-Ben-Haddou is the most famous ksar in the region, if not the country. The Ksar of Aït-Ben-Haddou is a striking example of southern Moroccan architecture.

Visit to the Taourirt Kasbah in Ouarzazate (payable on site). The Taourirt Kasbah is a magnificent sight, a complex tangle of red ochre adobe walls and crenellated towers forming a fortified sanctuary. The former residence of the pasha of Marrakech, Thami El Glaoui, it has benefited from a restoration program initiated by Unesco. Many films have been shot in this extraordinary setting.

Departure in the morning at 8 a.m., return at 7 p.m.
